Dear Lynne,

2020 was a year like no other, with unprecedented challenges faced by all. Yet the generosity of donors like you has transformed many of these challenges into stories of positive change.

Thank you for supporting ANU over the years. I am pleased to share with you a collection of inspiring stories from last year in the Your giving matters: 2020 Report to Donors.

Our donors provided immediate relief to ANU students facing financial hardship and gave them continuity in their studies. And thanks to philanthropic support of the Kambri Scholars program, an increasing number of Indigenous students are choosing ANU to help them achieve their educational aspirations.

By helping ANU staff members impacted by COVID-19, donors have rallied round our community when the going was tough. Donors like you helped rehabilitate koalas affected by bushfires and protect iconic Australian birds from the threat of climate change.

As we look to the future, our University is more committed than ever to our students, research, communities and our nation. This commitment is only possible with your loyal support.

I hope you enjoy reading each of the stories in this report.

Lastly, I hope you can join us back on campus in October for the annual donor thank you event - the Celebration of Giving. We will be sharing more details closer to the event.

Once again, thank you.

FOR SUPPORTING CMU

Today we celebrate you and your generosity. When you give to CMU, you are supporting the achievements of a student who is the first in their family to attend college, an ambitious entrepreneur ready to make their mark on the world, a non-traditional student who is returning to school, a determined student-athlete and so many others who find a home at CMU.

You are an indispensable part of the Maverick family and we're grateful for you!

Subject: A Heartfelt Thank-You

Dear Matt,

As a student, my education and staying on track to graduate are really important right now. Achieving those milestones is up to me, but I wouldn't have the opportunity to attend Colorado State University and realize my potential if not for your generosity.

On behalf of thousands of scholarship recipients across campus, I want to say, "Thank you for being a scholarship donor." You are making an important difference in ways you may not even realize.

Please watch this short video, which expresses in pictures what my words alone cannot convey.

We're back for the fall semester, and your support helped make that possible.

With you, we will flourish!

Sincerely,

Dear Salutation,

UB's success would not be possible without the support it receives from its dedicated donors. Thank you for expressing your confidence in our university through your generous commitment.

Every contribution has a direct and immediate impact on the university and funds a level of excellence not sustainable through state assistance alone. We have already made great progress. But with your investment, UB will continue making a difference, whether you support a scholarship for one student, endow a professor who will inspire thousands, or fund a cure that saves the lives of millions. This is our bold promise to you.

Thank you again for your personal and financial investment in the people and programs at the University at Buffalo.

Dear «SALUTATION»,

We are honored that you have chosen to support the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences with a gift to the Dean's Fund for Excellence. I am pleased to recognize you as a [LEVEL] member of the Dean's Circle. The generosity of the college's alumni and friends sustains our mission to provide innovative educational opportunities while meeting the diverse needs of our academic community. When you help advance foundational programs and groundbreaking research, your contribution makes a lasting impact.

Your investment demonstrates a commitment to the success of current and future Gators. Much of the Dean's Fund goes to the many college programs that support and acknowledge our outstanding students at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Our Dean's Medal for graduating seniors recognizes recipients' exceptional breadth of academic courses taken and robust experiential education participation, two contributors to career success. The Dean's Fund is also instrumental in furthering the scope of our public programs and outreach activities, which connect the college to the community around us. These efforts also allow our faculty to form relationships with bright young minds we might not otherwise reach — some of whom end up making an impact at the college as students.

As the University of Florida continues to celebrate its top-5 public university ranking, we are grateful to have you as a partner on the journey. On behalf of the college's faculty, students, and staff, thank you for your support!

Sincerely,

David Richardson
Dean

Dear Lindsay,

On One Wild Day, you helped support more than 95% of students through your gift to the Linfield Student Scholarship Fund.

The Linfield experience allows us to be known by professors, have hands-on learning experiences, try new things, be involved in clubs and activities outside of the classroom and be supported in this close community.

Subject line: Your investment in student health & wellness

Dear Lindsay,

During One Wild Day, you supported students' mental and physical health through your gift to the Student Health and Well-Being Fund.

Our Student Health, Wellness and Counseling Center and Student Affairs staff are eager to put your gift to work and we want to share our plans.

Subject line: You're removing the barrier to keep students in class

Dear Lindsay,

During One Wild Day, you committed to the success of our students through your gift to The Student Emergency Aid Fund.

Each semester, there are dozens of students who are unable to register for their next classes because of small balances (generally under $1,000) on their student accounts. Often, this is because of some unforeseen financial challenge that has arisen during the

Subject line: You decreased food insecurity for students

Dear Lindsay,

During One Wild Day, you provided healthy, convenient snacks, meals and other food staples for Linfield students experiencing food insecurity. Thank you for caring for this community through your gift to the Wildcat Food Pantry!

A 2020 survey by Linfield's Office of Community Engagement found that 40.89% of students reported that they had experienced hunger in a 30-day period because they could not afford food. As a result, the Wildcat Food Pantry was created.

Inside the pantry, students have access to more than 40 different kinds of non-perishable foods and various hygiene supplies. They also have access to information such as where to find a hot meal in McMinnville or how to use SNAP benefits.

You're helping students focus on their education rather than worrying about their next meal.

LSU

Dear Lynne,

When sudden circumstances create immediate financial needs, the LSU Student Emergency Support Fund provides relief so students can stay on track academically.

Thank you for making a gift to this crucial fund. Your generosity positions LSU to continue to step forward to respond to students' needs when they are counting on us most.

Nearly three-fourths of LSU students are from Louisiana, which means our Tigers are particularly vulnerable to emergencies like weather-related natural disasters along the Gulf Coast. From these situations to fires, deaths of immediate family members, and illness, the Student Emergency Support Fund is a safety net for students experiencing life-changing circumstances.

Thank you for your kindness and compassion.
